iNote Subject: COVID-19 Contact Tracing

An important component of Santee Cooper's response to potential COVID-19 cases is the identification of individuals who may have been in contact with a reported potential exposure. This process, called contact tracing, has primarily been conducted by members of Occupational Health through one-on-one conversations with impacted employees. To improve the efficiency of the process, Santee Cooper has expanded the team of individuals, who have received the appropriate training, to assist in contact tracing.

The contact tracing team now includes:

- Loraine Dennis
- Monica Pfohl
- Jennifer Redmond
- Troy Diel
- Jill M. Marshall

If you are contacted by one of these individuals concerning the contact tracing process, you are expected to respond in a complete and timely manner.

If you have questions, please contact CIMT at ext. 6900.
